‘SELL BY’ VS. ‘USE BY’ VS. ‘BEST BY’

Cook Q&A

Q What do the markings “sell by,” “use by” and “best by” mean? When did these markings appear? I don’t recall seeing them before about 10 years ago.

A There might have been dates on the package before, but you may not have been able to understand them. It used to be common for companies that handle perishable food to mark the packages with codes, so the guy who drove the egg or the bread truck knew how long something had been on the shelf.

These days, you see more actual dates. It’s called “Open Dating” when a package has a date instead of a code. But the language still gets confusing. Except for certain products, including infant formula and some baby food, product dating isn’t required by federal law, and there isn’t a universal system. Requirements change state to state.

However, when you see open dating on a perishable product, it usually works this way:

- Sell By is used by the store or the food company representative, so they know when to take something off the shelf.
- Best By (or Best If Used Before) is a quality recommendation.
- Use By is the latest date recommended for peak quality, but again, the product may be OK for a day or so longer.

It has nothing to do with safety. The product may be fine for at least a little longer.

Medicare Scam

Medicare recipients do not need to sign up for anything regarding Obama Care (Affordable Care Act).

CELEBRATING RSVP ALL STARS  by Jan Beedle

“Warren County needs the heads, hands and hearts of committed people, like RSVP volunteers, to serve where ever needed. During the past year 246 RSVP volunteers gave over 30,000 hours of service to the community. The banquet was a heartfelt thank you for their hard work and to honor them for their commitment.”

Tom Ariss, Warren County Commissioner and WCCS Board Member, praised the value of the volunteers to the community and asserted that they are valuable assets to the American way of life.

Gapper, the Cincinnati Reds mascot, frolicked and danced his way through the fans, while two suspended screens showed fun-filled days at the ballpark. All joined in with hearty voices with the rendition of Take Me Out to the Ballgame.

Mary Alice Gausman, an original member of the Rosie Reds, followed with interesting stories of the last 50 years, as a dedicated Reds’ fan. She has an extended collection of Reds memorabilia. Mary Alice volunteers at the Reds’ Hall of Fame and Museum.

Three of the longest serving RSVP members include; Anne Shann serving for 23 years; Earl Gorsuch and Josephine McComas serving for 22 years.

Six lucky volunteers each won two tickets to the Cincinnati Reds Hall of Fame and Museum. Jeannie Ralston, a 16-year member of RSVP, won the quilt drawing.
The Lebanon Early Learning Center is participating in an exciting new partnership called PeerNet that will help prepare preschool children for kindergarten. Lebanon City Schools received a $175,000 grant from the Ohio Department of Education this past spring, which is supporting the creation of a community-wide collaboration of preschools in Lebanon. The objective of PEERnet is to make sure children entering kindergarten are ready to meet the higher expectations of the Common Core state standards, in preparation for achieving the Third-Grade Reading Guarantee.

Mark Graler, Director of Curriculum and Instruction for Lebanon City Schools explained, “We ask a lot of our early learners today. In the past we would have been satisfied just teaching numbers and letters in kindergarten, but now we expect students to leave kindergarten reading.”

Teachers in each Lebanon preschool classroom will receive coaching from master-teachers who will support best practice instruction in early literacy. The coaches are retired teachers who still have a passion for teaching and for making a difference in the lives of children.

During the 2013-2014 school year, all Lebanon area preschools will use the Creative Curriculum, an award-winning, research-based curriculum featuring exploration and discovery as a way of learning and enabling students to develop confidence, creativity and critical thinking skills. This curriculum is currently used in the WCCS Early Learning Centers. The most recent version of the curriculum, complete with a library of children’s books, was purchased for each preschool through the grant from the Ohio Department of Education.

“The most important aspect of the PeerNet project is building a connection between the school district and the preschool providers that are preparing children for kindergarten. Getting all the preschool teachers together and teaching from the same curriculum is incredibly powerful,” said Lisa Caylor, Director of WCCS Early Learning Centers. “The PeerNet coaches will support our teachers in presenting early literacy instruction to fit seamlessly with the instruction the children will get in kindergarten. The WCCS Early Learning Centers are known for providing quality early education in Warren County, and we are very excited that this project will help us target the most important early literacy skills to prepare children for success when they enter school.”

Attention! Everyone on Medicare!

Medicare open enrollment starts October 15, 2013 and extends through December 7, 2013. This time frame gives you an opportunity to switch to another Part D prescription drug plan, or to another Medicare Advantage Plan, or from regular Medicare to an Advantage Plan. Sound like a foreign language? WCCS can help!

On Tuesday, October 29, The 741 Center hosts a Medicare Check-Up Day from 10am to 2:30pm. Individual counseling appointments with trained counselors will help you decipher the choices available. The Ohio Senior Health Insurance Information Program (OSHIIP), of the Ohio Department of Insurance and WCCS staff, will be available for appointments.

It is important to review your plans annually because your health concerns and medications may change and the plans that you have selected may also change the drugs they cover and the cost of those drugs. OSHIIP and WCCS staff will be able to put your information into the computer and print out options for you to choose from. You may find out that your current plan is the best fit for you but you may also learn that there are better options and less expensive plans that offer the same or better coverage.

There is no charge for this service although donations are gratefully accepted. The staff that will be helping do not sell insurance or receive any commissions so have no vested interest in any particular plan.

Appointments are required for individual sessions and can be made by calling 513-695-2288 or 937-425-2288. Please bring the following information for the Medicare Check Up:

1. Social Security Number
2. Picture ID
3. Current Medicare coverage cards and other insurance cards
4. Current List of medications, dosages, and how many times a day you take them
5. Names of any preferred pharmacy, doctor and specialists you see.

Let WCCS help you through this Medicare maze and maybe even make it understandable.

We are excited about these findings because it highlights an encouraging situation for both job seekers and the volunteer sector.

Consider Leanne’s story. She is a military spouse who began volunteering to get involved with her new community when her family relocated to Florida from California. Her work with the Navy Marine Corps Relief Society as a financial counselor and managing volunteers created a passion that never faded as she moved from coast to coast with her family, and eventually led to a full-time position managing volunteers with her local American Red Cross.

Leveling the Playing Field

Volunteering makes a positive impression, and that can make a big difference in a competitive job market. It can be especially helpful for people with limited skills or connections, and help level the playing field.

For example, volunteers without a high school diploma improved their chances of finding employment by 51 percent, and those in rural areas increased their chances of finding work by 55 percent. In fact, volunteering improved the likelihood of success for job seekers across all demographic categories – such as age, race, and gender – geographic areas, and job market conditions, and the findings held across the 10-year period analyzed in our study. That is amazing!

Creating Opportunity

CNCS supports this pathway to employment through our efforts that promote service and volunteerism that impacts communities around the nation. Our grantees and signature programs such as AmeriCorps recruits and manages 4.7 million American volunteers each year for efforts that strengthen our nation’s nonprofits and other community organizations, and multiplies their impact.

Out-of-work job seekers should consider the option of volunteering to build skills and establish connections that can lead to work. Nonprofits can build their capacity by targeting these job seekers to form relationships that can benefit both parties. And policymakers can encourage the use of volunteering as a strategy to reduce the employment rolls and create greater economic opportunity.

Many of us know someone who is looking for work. My challenge to all of us is to seek out these friends to see if they will consider volunteering as a way to stay connected while they search for a job.

Honor Flight Dayton’s Tribute to Deceased WWII/Korean War Veterans

“We can’t all be heroes. Some of us have to stand on the curb and clap as they go by.”

Will Rogers

In addition to escorting WWII, Korean War, and terminally-ill Veterans from any war to Washington, DC, Honor Flight Dayton also proudly honors deceased Veterans who never got to see their memorials. We accomplish this at the memorials by conducting a ceremony that is referred to as Flags of Our Heroes. It is our desire to show the respect so richly deserved to the deceased Veterans who never had the opportunity to visit their memorials.

For those who would like to participate in this program, Honor Flight Dayton requests a 5 X 7 photo of the Veteran, preferably while in the service. As part of the ceremony, we photograph an American flag along with the deceased Veteran’s picture at their appropriate memorial.

After the trip, the family will receive an 8 X 10 color photo and a certificate from Honor Flight Dayton honoring their Veteran. The original photo will also be returned at this time. There is no charge to participate in this program as this is Honor Flight Dayton’s way of showing our respect and appreciation to deceased Veterans.

Volunteering can be the difference-maker in your next interview? New, ground-breaking research at the Corporation for National and Community Service (CNCS) provides evidence of a relationship between volunteering and finding employment.

Our new study, “Volunteering as a Pathway to Employment,” found that those who were out of work and got involved with volunteering opportunities increased their likelihood of finding employment by 27 percent.

We are excited about these findings because it highlights an encouraging situation for both job seekers and the volunteer sector.

Out-of-work job seekers should consider the option of volunteering to build skills and establish connections that can lead to work.
